

Guidance for Safer Working Practice for Adults who Work with Children and Young People

November 2007

AMA network established by department for children, schools and families

This guidance was commissioned by the Department for Children, Schools and Families and does not replace or take priority over advice or codes of conduct produced by employers or national bodies.

The information contained in the document is meant as a practical reference point for workers and managers to reflect upon their practice. It promotes safer working practice which safeguards both child and worker whilst enabling them to work together to achieve positive outcomes for children and young people.

It covers all areas of work and should be reviewed regularly to ensure that practice remains safe and specific to job role. Initially the guidance can be used as an induction tool to clarify professional boundaries and what is expected practice. Later in supervision the guidance can be used to further promote or reinforce what safer working practice means to the organisation and employee.

I have read and understand the Guidance on Safer Working Practice. This guidance was discussed in relation to my job with my line manager on:
